No. C 16-4265 CW

ORDER GRANTING
MOTION TO CERTIFY
CLASS

(Docket No. 53)

This is a putative class action brought under the Employee Retirement Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) by Plaintiff Marlon Cryer, a former participant in Defendant Franklin Resources, Inc.'s 401(k) retirement plan. Plaintiff moves to certify the class. Defendant Franklin Resources, Inc. (FRI) has filed an opposition and Plaintiff has filed a reply. Having considered the parties' papers and oral argument, the Court GRANTS the motion.

BACKGROUND

The Court has previously provided the relevant background (Docket No. 44).

LEGAL STANDARD

A plaintiff seeking to represent a class first must satisfy the threshold requirements of Rule 23(a). Rule 23(a) provides that a case is appropriate for certification as a class action if:

- 1 1) the class is so numerous that joinder of all members is
- 2 impracticable;
- 3 2) there are questions of law or fact common to the class;
- 4 3) the claims or defenses of the representative parties are
- 5 typical of the claims or defenses of the class; and
- 6 4) the representative parties will fairly and adequately
- 7 protect the interests of the class.

8 Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a).

9 A plaintiff must also meet the requirements of one of the 10 subsections of Rule 23(b). In this motion, Plaintiff seeks 11 certification under Rule 23(b)(1), and in the alternative under 12 Rules 23(b)(2) or (3).

13 Subsection (b)(1) applies where the prosecution of separate 14 actions by individual members of the class would create the risk 15 of "inconsistent or varying adjudications with respect to 16 individual members of the class which would establish incompatible 17 standards of conduct for the party opposing the class," or of 18 adjudications "which would as a practical matter be dispositive of 19 the interests of the other members not parties to the 20 adjudications or substantially impair or impede their ability to 21 protect their interests." Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(1); see also Wal-22 Mart Stores, Inc. v. Dukes, 564 U.S. 338, 362 n.11 (2011).

23 Subsection (b)(2) applies where "the party opposing the class 24 has acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the 25 class, thereby making appropriate final injunctive relief or 26 corresponding declaratory relief with respect to the class as a 27 whole." Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(2).

28

1 Subsection (b) (3) permits certification where common
2 questions of law and fact "predominate over any questions 3 affecting only individual members" and class resolution is 4 "superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient 5 adjudication of the controversy." Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b) (3).
6 These requirements are intended "to cover cases 'in which a class 7 action would achieve economies of time, effort, and expense . . .
8 without sacrificing procedural fairness or bringing about other 9 undesirable results.'" Amchem Prods., Inc. v. Windsor, 521 U.S.
10 591, 615 (1997) (quoting Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b) (3) Adv. Comm. Notes 11 to 1966 Amendment).

12 Plaintiffs seeking class certification bear the burden of 13 demonstrating that they satisfy each Rule 23 requirement at issue.
14 Gen. Tel. Co. of Sw. v. Falcon, 457 U.S. 147, 158-61 (1982); 15 Doninger v. Pac. Nw. Bell, Inc., 564 F.2d 1304, 1308 (9th Cir.
16 1977). In general, the court must take the substantive 17 allegations of the complaint as true. Blackie v. Barrack, 524
18 F.2d 891, 901 n.17 (9th Cir. 1975). The court must conduct a 19 "rigorous analysis," which may require it "to probe behind the 20 pleadings before coming to rest on the certification question."
21 Dukes, 564 U.S. at 350-51 (quoting Falcon, 457 U.S. at 160-61).
22 "Frequently that 'rigorous analysis' will entail some overlap with 23 the merits of the plaintiff's underlying claim. That cannot be 24 helped." Dukes, 564 U.S. at 351. To satisfy itself that class 25 certification is proper, the court may consider material beyond 26 the pleadings and require supplemental evidentiary submissions by 27 the parties. Blackie, 524 F.2d at 901 n.17. "When resolving such 28 factual disputes in the context of a motion for class

1 certification, district courts must consider 'the persuasiveness
2 of the evidence presented.'" Aburto v. Verizon California, Inc., 3 No. CV 11-03683-ODW VBKX, 2012 WL 10381, at *2 (C.D. Cal. Jan. 3, 4 2012) (quoting Ellis v. Costco Wholesale Corp., 657 F.3d 970, 982 5 (9th Cir. 2011)), abrogated on other grounds as recognized by 6 Shiferaw v. Sunrise Sen. Living Mgmt., Inc., No. 13-CV-2171-JAK, 7 2014 WL 12585796, at *24 n.16 (C.D. Cal. June 11, 2014).
8 Ultimately, it is in the district court's discretion whether a 9 class should be certified. Molski v. Gleich, 318 F.3d 937, 946
10 (9th Cir. 2003); Burkhalter Travel Agency v. MacFarms Int'l, Inc., 11 141 F.R.D. 144, 152 (N.D.Cal. 1991).

12 DISCUSSION

13 1. Motions for Leave to File Under Seal

14 Preliminarily, Plaintiff and FRI have filed separate motions
15 for leave to file under seal documents related to Plaintiff's 16 motion for class certification.

17 There is a "strong presumption in favor of access to court 18 records." Ctr. for Auto Safety v. Chrysler Grp., LLC, 809 F.3d 19 1092, 1096 (9th Cir.) (citation omitted), cert. denied sub nom.
20 FCA U.S. LLC v. Ctr. for Auto Safety, 137 S. Ct. 38 (2016).

21 "Accordingly, '[a] party seeking to seal a judicial record then 22 bears the burden of overcoming this strong presumption by meeting 23 the 'compelling reasons' standard.'" Id. (quoting Kamakana v.
24 City & Cty. of Honolulu, 447 F.3d 1172, 1178 (9th Cir. 2006)).

25 "What constitutes a 'compelling reason' is 'best left to the sound 26 discretion of the trial court.'" Id. at 1097 (quoting Nixon v.
27 Warner Commc'ns, Inc., 435 U.S. 589, 599 (1978)). There is an 28 exception to this rule: a party seeking to file under seal

1 documents related to motions that are no "more than tangentially 2 related to the merits of a case," id. at 1101, must satisfy the 3 "good cause" standard from Federal Rule of Civil Procedure
4 26(c)(1), id. at 1097. Justification to seal is not established 5 simply by showing that the document is subject to a protective 6 order or by stating in general terms that the material is 7 considered to be confidential, but rather must be supported by a 8 sworn declaration demonstrating with particularity the specific 9 harm or prejudice that would result from disclosure. Civil L.R.
10 79-5(d); Kamakana, 447 F.3d at 1180, 1186. Requests to seal must 11 be narrowly tailored to seek sealing only of sealable material.
12 Civil L.R. 79-5(b).

13 Because analysis of a motion for class certification 14 frequently overlaps with the merits, the parties must provide 15 "compelling reasons" to file under seal.

16 Plaintiff requests leave to file under seal in its entirety 17 Exhibit A to his Motion, a copy of the Plan (Docket No. 61).
18 Plaintiff's attorney declares that Defendants assert that the 19 document contains proprietary information about Defendants' 20 business operations that is not publicly available and that the 21 document is confidential under the parties' stipulated protective 22 order. However, no Defendant has filed a declaration establishing 23 that this material is sealable and the time to do so has passed.
24 Civil L.R. 79-5(e). Accordingly, the request must be DENIED.

25 FRI requests leave to file under seal (1) the entirety of the 26 expert report prepared by Kristen Willard (Willard report) and its 27 exhibits; (2) Franklin Templeton Investments' alternative dispute 28 resolution (ADR) agreement; (3) Plaintiff's severance agreement;

1 (4) portions of its Opposition that refer to the Willard report, 2 ADR agreement and severance agreement; and (5) portions of the 3 declaration of Sharon Geary that refer to the ADR and severance 4 agreements. (Docket No. 58).

5 FRI has not indicated on the unredacted versions of its 6 Opposition and the Geary declaration, "by highlighting or other 7 clear method, the portions of the document that have been omitted 8 from the redacted version." Civil L.R. 79-5(d)(1)(D).

9 Accordingly, the request to file those documents under seal is 10 DENIED pending resubmission in conformance with this rule.

11 Furthermore, as discussed below, FRI has not satisfied its burden 12 to show that sealing the ADR agreement is justified.

13 FRI's attorney declares that the Willard report "contains 14 sensitive information related to plaintiff's former account 15 holdings" in the Plan and the accounts of other participants, that 16 it is subject to the parties' stipulated protective order, and 17 that FRI has taken measures to ensure its confidentiality. Docket
18 No. 58-1, Decl. of Catalina J. Vergara in Supp. of Def. Franklin
19 Resources, Inc.'s Admin. Mot. for Leave to File Docs. Under Seal 20 (Vergara Decl.) ¶¶ 4-5. However, this does not identify the 21 specific harm that would come from disclosure or describe it with 22 particularity and is therefore insufficient to justify sealing.
23 See Martin v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., No. CV 12-06030 SI, 2013 WL
24 5441973, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 30, 2013).

25 FRI's attorney declares that the ADR agreement "contains 26 confidential business information related to Defendant's business 27 practices related to employment," is the product of confidential 28 communications and negotiations with Plaintiff, and that Franklin

1 Templeton Companies, LLC and FRI have taken steps to preserve its 2 confidentiality. Docket No. 58-1, Vergara Decl. ¶¶ 6-7. However, 3 the declaration again does not identify the specific harm that 4 would come from disclosure or describe it with particularity and 5 is therefore insufficient to justify sealing. Accordingly, the 6 request is DENIED as to the ADR agreement.

7 The Court has previously granted permission to file the 8 severance agreement under seal and does so again.

9 For the foregoing reasons and as described above, FRI's 10 request is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part.

11 2. Releases

12 FRI argues that in two separate agreements Plaintiff waived 13 his right to participate in a class action in any way related to 14 his employment.¹

15 These provisions are unenforceable. Morris v. Ernst & Young, 16 LLP, 834 F.3d 975, 983 (9th Cir. 2016), cert. granted, 137 S. Ct.
17 809 (2017).² FRI cites Lu v. AT & T Services, Inc., No. C 10-18 05954 SBA, 2011 WL 2470268 (N.D. Cal. June 21, 2011), for the 19 proposition that stand-alone class action waivers in severance
20 agreements may be enforced. That Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA)
21 case held that the release in question was not unenforceable 22 because "the right to proceed on a collective basis implicates an 23 _____

24 ¹ Following Bowles v. Reade, 198 F.3d 752, 757 (9th Cir.
25 1999), the Court has previously held that the covenant not to sue 26 contained in the severance agreement did not preclude Plaintiff's lawsuit because his breach of fiduciary duty claim seeks to restore value to and is therefore brought on behalf of the Plan.

27 ² FRI points out that the Supreme Court has granted 28 certiorari in Morris, but it does not request a stay.

1 employee's procedural, as opposed to substantive rights" whereas 2 the FLSA protected only substantive rights. Id. at *3. However,
3 the court in Morris held that the National Labor Relations Act 4 (NLRA) right to pursue concerted work-related legal claims is 5 substantive. 834 F.3d at 983. FRI also cites Birdsong v. AT & T
6 Corporation, No. C12-6175 TEH, 2013 WL 1120783, at *6 (N.D. Cal.
7 Mar. 18, 2013) for the same proposition. Relying in part on Lu, 8 that case also held that the right to bring a FLSA action 9 collectively is a waivable procedural right. Id. at *6. The 10 court added that it was "mindful that Plaintiff signed the instant 11 release agreement after her employment had ended, rather than as a 12 precondition to employment or to continued employment." Id. FRI 13 points out that one of the agreements here coincided with 14 Plaintiff's termination from employment. However, at the time 15 Plaintiff signed his severance agreement, he was an employee.
16 Furthermore, the NLRA applies to former employees. See 29 U.S.C.
17 § 152(3). To the extent these cases suggest an outcome at 18 variance with the Ninth Circuit's subsequent holding in Morris, 19 the Court declines to follow them.

20 Accordingly, under Ninth Circuit precedent the class action 21 waivers in both of the agreements at issue are unenforceable.

22 3. Standing

23 FRI argues in multiple ways that Plaintiff does not have 24 standing to bring this lawsuit. These arguments are more suited 25 to a motion to dismiss but may overlap with arguments about 26 typicality and adequacy. First, it argues that he does not have 27 standing to bring claims regarding funds in which he did not 28 invest because his single claim for breach of fiduciary duty "in

1 reality . . . comprises 40 separate claims challenging the 2 propriety of each and every FTI Fund offered in the Plan lineup.”
3 Docket No. 57, Opp’n 8. Similarly, it argues that he lacks 4 standing to pursue claims related to the funds in which he 5 invested that outperformed comparable funds because he was not 6 injured in those instances. FRI also argues that Plaintiff lacks 7 standing because he does not fully understand what a stable value 8 fund is and whether he would have allocated money to such a fund 9 had it been available, and had he done so he would have lost 10 money.

11 These arguments fail primarily because, as the Court has 12 explained, the lawsuit seeks to restore value to and is therefore 13 brought on behalf of the Plan. The Supreme Court has explained 14 that “recovery for a violation of 29 U.S.C. § 1109 for breach of 15 fiduciary duty inures to the benefit of the plan as a whole, and 16 not to an individual beneficiary.” Paulsen v. CNF Inc., 559 F.3d 17 1061, 1073 (9th Cir. 2009) (citing Mass. Mut. Life Ins. Co. v.
18 Russell, 473 U.S. 134, 140 (1985)). The potential “liability of 19 the fiduciary is “to make good to such plan any losses to the plan 20 . . . and to restore to such plan any profits of such fiduciary 21 which have been made through use of assets of the plan.” Russell, 22 473 U.S. at 140 (citation omitted). Accordingly, in determining 23 constitutional standing, courts look not to individual funds but 24 “to the nature of the claims and allegations to determine whether 25 the pleaded injury relates to the defendants’ management of the 26 Plan as a whole.” Urakhchin v. Allianz Asset Mgmt. of Am., L.P., 27 No. SACV 15-1614-JLS (JCGX), 2016 WL 4507117, at *4 (C.D. Cal.
28 Aug. 5, 2016).

1 FRI also argues that Plaintiff does not have standing to 2 bring claims that seek injunctive relief because he has withdrawn
3 his funds from the Plan. FRI relies on DeFazio v. Hollister, 4 Inc., 636 F. Supp. 2d 1045, 1076 (E.D. Cal. 2009), aff'd in part 5 sub nom. DeFazio v. Hollister Employee Share Ownership Trust, 612
6 F. App'x 439 (9th Cir. 2015), and an out-of-circuit district court 7 case. But subsequent Ninth Circuit authority indicates the 8 contrary. In Harris v. Amgen, Inc., 573 F.3d 728 (9th Cir. 2009), 9 the court held that "employees who cash out of a defined 10 contribution ERISA plan are still 'participants' in that plan, as 11 defined by 29 U.S.C. § 1002(7), regardless of whether they 12 withdrew their assets voluntarily." Id. at 734. The court 13 rejected the proposition that such a plaintiff has standing only 14 under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(1)(B), which permits participants "to 15 recover benefits due," and not under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(2), which 16 permits participants to sue for "appropriate relief." Appropriate 17 relief includes equitable remedies. Harris, 573 F.3d at 734 n.4.
18 The court held that a participant who has cashed out "has 19 statutory standing to assert fiduciary duty claims under Section 20 502(a)(2), even when relief is also available under Section 21 502(a)(1)(B)." Id. at 735; see also LaRue v. DeWolff, Boberg &
22 Assocs., Inc., 552 U.S. 248, 256 (2008). Accordingly, Plaintiff 23 does not lack standing on this basis.

24 4. Rule 23(a)

25 a. Numerosity

26 Plaintiff requests certification of a class that includes all 27 participants in the Plan from July 28, 2010 to the date of 28 judgment. As of September 30, 2015, there were over 5,000

1 participants. FRI does not challenge numerosity. The Court finds 2 that joinder of all members is impracticable.

3 b. Commonality

4 As noted above, Rule 23(a)(2) requires that there be 5 "questions of law or fact common to the class." Fed. R. Civ. P.
6 23(a)(2). The Ninth Circuit has explained that this rule does not 7 preclude class certification if fewer than all questions of law or 8 fact are common to the class:

9 The commonality preconditions of Rule 23(a)(2) are less 10 rigorous than the companion requirements of Rule 23(b)(3).
11 Indeed, Rule 23(a)(2) has been construed permissively. All 12 questions of fact and law need not be common to satisfy the 13 rule. The existence of shared legal issues with divergent factual predicates is sufficient, as is a common core of salient facts coupled with disparate legal remedies within the class.

14 Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d 1011, 1019 (9th Cir. 1998).

15 Plaintiff identifies multiple common questions of law and 16 fact. All proposed members of the class participated in the Plan.
17 Their participation in the Plan is governed by the same written 18 document and they were provided the same investment options. The 19 Plan's fiduciaries' alleged conflicts of interest affected the 20 options offered under the plan and the allegedly excessive fees.
21 They owed the same duty to the Plan and recovery is on behalf of 22 the Plan as a whole.

23 FRI argues that there are no common questions for three 24 reasons. First, it argues that determining whether the funds 25 offered under the Plan constituted a violation of fiduciary duties 26 requires individualized analysis of participants' choices of 27 funds, the times of those choices, investment decisions and those 28

1 funds' relative performance. Second, FRI argues that § 502(a)(2) 2 claims do not qualify for class certification by default. The 3 Court agrees. Third, they argue that the determinative question 4 in this analysis is not whether claims raise common questions but 5 whether they are susceptible to common proof.

6 FRI's arguments are not persuasive because, as discussed 7 above, any recovery is on behalf of the Plan as a whole. The 8 common focus will be "on the conduct of Defendants: whether they 9 breached their fiduciary duties to the Plan as a whole by paying 10 excessive fees, whether they made imprudent investment decisions."
11 Kanawi v. Bechtel Corp., 254 F.R.D. 102, 109 (N.D. Cal. 2008).
12 FRI's argument has been rejected by multiple courts within the 13 Ninth Circuit. In re Northrop Grumman Corp. ERISA Litig., No. CV
14 06-06213 MMM JCX, 2011 WL 3505264, at *8 (C.D. Cal. Mar. 29, 2011) 15 (collecting cases).

16 The Court finds that Plaintiff has identified common issues 17 of law and fact.

18 c. Typicality

19 Rule 23(a)(3)'s typicality requirement provides that a "class 20 representative must be part of the class and possess the same 21 interest and suffer the same injury as the class members."
22 Falcon, 457 U.S. at 156 (quoting E. Tex. Motor Freight Sys., Inc.
23 v. Rodriguez, 431 U.S. 395, 403 (1977)) (internal quotation marks 24 omitted). This requirement is meant to ensure "that the interest 25 of the named representative aligns with the interests of the 26 class." Hanon v. Dataproducts Corp., 976 F.2d 497, 508 (9th Cir.
27 1992). Rule 23(a)(3) is satisfied where the named plaintiff has 28 the same or similar injury as the unnamed class members, the

1 action is based on conduct which is not unique to the named 2 plaintiff, and other class members have been injured by the same 3 course of conduct. Id. Class certification is inappropriate, 4 however, "where a putative class representative is subject to 5 unique defenses which threaten to become the focus of the 6 litigation." Id. (citation omitted).

7 FRI argues that Plaintiff's claims are not typical of the 8 proposed class because he has withdrawn from the Plan. FRI admits 9 that this reprises its argument that Plaintiff lacks standing.
10 The argument is also unpersuasive to the extent it applies to 11 typicality. "Courts within the Ninth Circuit have repeatedly 12 concluded that the typicality requirement was satisfied in defined 13 contribution cases despite the fact that 'participants have 14 individual accounts and select their investment fund from a 15 variety of available options.'" In re Northrop Grumman Corp.
16 ERISA Litig., 2011 WL 3505264, at *10 (citation omitted)
17 (collecting cases). FRI speculates that Plaintiff would be 18 "preoccupied with establishing the imprudence of the specific 19 funds in which he invested" and demonstrating his losses. Docket 20 No. 57, Opp'n 28. However, "[i]f the Plaintiffs recover any 21 damages on behalf of the Plan, it will be up to the Plan 22 administrator to determine how those damages are to be 23 distributed." Kanawi, 254 F.R.D. at 109 (citation omitted).

24 Plaintiff and unnamed class members have allegedly been 25 injured by FRI's management of the Plan; that conduct is not 26 unique to Plaintiff; and the unnamed class members were allegedly 27 injured by the same conduct. FRI does not identify any defenses 28

1 unique to Plaintiff. Accordingly, Plaintiff has satisfied the 2 typicality requirement.

3 d. Adequate Representation

4 "The threshold of knowledge required to qualify a class 5 representative is low; a party must be familiar with the basic 6 elements of her claim." Moeller v. Taco Bell Corp., 220 F.R.D.
7 604, 611 (N.D. Cal. 2004) (citing Burkhalter, 141 F.R.D. at 8 153-54). While class representatives must "understand the 9 gravamen" of their claims, it is not necessary that they be 10 "intimately familiar with every factual and legal issue in the 11 case." Id. (citing In re Worlds of Wonder Sec. Litig., 1990 WL 12 61951, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 23, 1990)). Thus, a class 13 representative "will be deemed inadequate only if she is 14 'startlingly unfamiliar' with the case." Id. (quoting Greenspan 15 v. Brassler, 78 F.R.D. 130, 133-34 (S.D.N.Y. 1978)). "Those 16 courts that have found representatives inadequate have done so 17 because the plaintiffs knew nothing about the case and completely 18 relied on counsel to direct the litigation." Id. (citing Welling 19 v. Alexy, 155 F.R.D. 654, 659 (N.D. Cal. 1994) (finding plaintiff 20 inadequate because he showed a "complete lack of interest in the 21 conduct of the case")), and Koenig v. Benson, 117 F.R.D. 330, 337 22 (E.D.N.Y. 1987) (finding plaintiff inadequate because of an 23 "alarming unfamiliarity" with the lawsuit)).

24 FRI argues that Plaintiff lacks a basic understanding of the 25 lawsuit. In his deposition, Plaintiff explained,

26 When an employer puts forth recommendations they should take 27 into consideration, like I said before, things that are good 28 performers, not necessarily yours, but you are still going to make money out of it--but good performers that will meet the

1 employee's expectation of what's fair. And so, if you don't 2 do that, and you only, quote, put your proprietary in there
3 to keep the money in house--that is my term--then I think 4 that fiduciary . . . responsibility has been neglected.

5 Docket No. 59-1, Reply, Ex. 1, Decl. of Marlon H. Cryer 47. This 6 demonstrates a basic understanding of the lawsuit. See In re
7 Northrop Grumman Corp. ERISA Litig., 2011 WL 3505264, at *14
8 (collecting cases); Kanawi, 254 F.R.D. at 110.

9 5. Rule 23(b)

10 a. Subsection (b) (1)

11 As noted above, a class may be certified under Rule 23(b) (1) 12 if the prosecution of separate actions by individual members of 13 the class would create the risk of "inconsistent or varying 14 adjudications with respect to individual members of the class 15 which would establish incompatible standards of conduct for the 16 party opposing the class." Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b) (1) (A).
17 "Certification under Rule 23(b) (1) is particularly appropriate in 18 cases involving ERISA fiduciaries who must apply uniform standards 19 to a large number of beneficiaries." Wit v. United Behavioral 20 Health, 317 F.R.D. 106, 132-33 (N.D. Cal. 2016). "Most ERISA 21 class action cases are certified under Rule 23(b) (1)." In re
22 Northrop Grumman Corp. ERISA Litig., 2011 WL 3505264, at *15
23 (quoting Kanawi, 254 F.R.D. at 111). If each of the thousands of 24 proposed members of the class was forced to adjudicate 25 individually, there would be a significant risk of inconsistent 26 judgments. Certification is therefore appropriate under Rule 27 23(b) (1).

1 b. Subsection (b) (2) & (b) (3)

2 Because Plaintiff seeks certification under these subsections 3 only in the alternative to certification under subsection (b) (1), 4 the Court does not reach them.

5 CONCLUSION

6 For the foregoing reasons, Plaintiff's motion for class
7 certification is GRANTED (Docket No. 53).

8 The Court certifies the following class: All participants in 9 the Franklin Templeton 401(k) Retirement Plan from July 28, 2010
10 to the date of judgment. Excluded from the class are Defendants, 11 Defendants' beneficiaries, and Defendants' immediate families.

12 Plaintiff's request for leave to file under seal Exhibit A to 13 his Motion is DENIED (Docket No. 61). Plaintiff shall refile the 14 exhibit without any redactions or withdraw it from consideration.

15 FRI's request for leave to file under seal portions of its 16 Opposition and supporting exhibits is GRANTED in part and DENIED 17 in part (Docket No. 58). The motion is granted as to Plaintiff's 18 severance agreement. It is denied as to (1) the Willard report 19 and its exhibits and (2) the ADR agreement. It is denied without 20 prejudice to resubmission in accordance with this Order and the 21 Local Rules as to (1) portions of FRI's Opposition that refer to 22 the Willard report, ADR agreement and severance agreement and (2)
23 portions of the declaration of Sharon Geary that refer to the ADR 24 and severance agreements.

25 IT IS SO ORDERED.
